

Regulatory Update

March 2013

Malaysia

The Standards and Industrial Research Institute of Malaysia (SIRIM) has recently advised that Modular Approval would no longer be accepted for modules installed in Tablet PCs in Malaysia. Each Tablet PC will need to be approved in full regardless of whether it uses approved modules.

However there is no official guidance available yet about this, nor the official date of when the new rule was enforced.

This change doesn't impact the Notebook PCs. Notebook PCs should still use the 'modular approval + add host' scheme, where the RF radios are approved as modules and then each host device is listed on the approval for the modules.

For further information on this article, please contact

Cecilia Ma
Product Compliance Specialists
cecilia@productcompliancespecialists.com