

NOP (National organic program)

The National Organic Program NOP is part of the US Department of Agriculture (USDA). BCS is accredited in 2002. Certification under NOP regulations entitles a company to use the USDA NOP seal in accordance with the requirements of the Regulation.

The whole food chain of a certified product designated for sale to the US market must be certified according to the NOP rules. This includes raw material producers, processors and sometimes traders.

Kiwa BCS Öko-Garantie GmbH is one of the pioneers of the organic movement in Europe. Kiwa BCS, under the USDA NOP (National Organic Program), offers inspection and certification services for farmers, processors in all aspects of organic production under NOP.

What Kiwa Can Do For You?

Kiwa BCS certifies companies in the entire food chain and companies engaged in organic trade and certifies the following companies: Propagation materials, seeds, herbal products, ornamental plants, glasshouse production, fertilizers, collecting from nature, beekeeping, mushroom cultivation, processed foods and special labeling with foods:

With the growth of the American organic product market every year, organic products have become one of the target markets.

Many countries made agreements with USA like EU, Japanese etc. for organic products. However, companies in countries that do not have a trade agreement with the United States must have NOP certification to export their organic products to the US.

Certification of organic production in accordance with the NOP organic rules allows you to market your products in the US market organically and allows you to label your products with the USDA NOP seal and the Kiwa BCS logo.
