

KIWAGREEN for products improving the health of people and planet - K15014

Have you set yourself the long-term goal (2030-2050) of becoming energy or climate neutral with your production process or your products to achieve a greener path in your value-chain? You can distinguish yourself in the market with an official green label; KIWAGREEN.

You are...

Are you working for an organization that have set itself the long-term goal (2030-2050) of becoming energy or climate neutral? Then it is good to know that a KIWAGREEN label is developed as a strategic instrument to acknowledge 'green programs or green elements' of your organizations product and/or process. It is an identification of contribution to the responsible and sustainable value chain.

Improving health of people and planet

The overall objective of KIWAGREEN is, through certification, to support the demand and the supply of products and services which cause less stress on the environment, contribute to responsible and sustainable value chain through non-misleading communication of verifiable and accurate information, on environmental aspects of products and services. KIWAGREEN is especially for your products and processes that improve the health of people and planet.

More information

Please read our enclosed leaflet to learn more about what this strategic instrument can mean to you and the planet. Detailed information on requirements to obtain KIWAGREEN is laid down in Kiwa manual K15014. To receive a copy of the manual, send your request to castor@kiwa.nl with your name and company name.
