

Radio, Telecom and Wireless

Wireless communication and internet play a very significant role in our society. This is not just limited to computers, but also appliances for services such as cooking, cooling and security are becoming more and more dependent on telecommunication.

We have a team of qualified engineers helping our customers at every stage of the inspection process. Our knowledge of quality standards and our communication with the official authorities on maintenance and inspection regulations worldwide are invaluable to our customers.

Would you like to know more about our inspection services? Please email us or call +44 (0)1844 273277 for further details.
