

Temporary Staff

The energy distribution sector is continually evolving and changes inside and outside organisations follow on from one another at a rapid pace. These changes impact on the personnel, employees and manpower in organisations. As a result, there are regularly vacancies for temporary staff in the sector. Kiwa Technology can provide support by supplying specialists on temporary contracts.

For clients that require additional personnel capacity on a temporary basis, for example, asset management specialists, risk specialists, gas distribution specialists, policy advisers for project management, supervision of change processes or to strengthen project teams.

Individual expertise

Hiring one of our specialists means you not only gain access to their expertise but also to the in-depth knowledge and experience of the entire Kiwa Technology organisation. We are completely familiar with your processes and speak the same language as your people.

Target groups

- Network companies
- Gas, electricity, water and heating network operators
- Pipeline owners
- Pipeline operators
