

Hydrogen Training

Kiwa Training is an established provider of domestic, commercial, LPG gas installer training courses.

We will shortly be extending our installer training scope to include training for hydrogen cooking and heating appliances, in line with the changes which come with a Hydrogen Economy and installation need.

Kiwa also deliver a highly successful one-day hydrogen-centred course for professionals working in the gas supply and appliance industries, approved by IGEM for the purposes of CPD. This 'Hydrogen and the Natural Gas Network' course is designed for those with an understanding of the existing natural gas network and the principles of combustion looking to roadmap their respective involvement with the changes from a hydrogen energy transition. The course has been delivered to a variety of organisations ranging from private companies, BEIS, to the major UK Gas Networks.
