

Roof inspections & site management

In most cases preparations for a project are done carefully and thoroughly. However, installing the roofing construction remains a work of man.

To be able to actually achieve the intended quality based on the specifications or the technical description on the building site, BDA Dakadvies employs a number of inspectors who are involved in the supervision of ongoing projects on a daily basis. Thanks to the combination of vast practical experience and sound theoretical knowledge, our inspectors can quickly recognise and solve problems on the building site. Identifying and preventing unsafe situations is also part of the inspections.

The results of the inspections are recorded in short, easy readable inspection reports, stating matters such as the status of the project, the materials supplied and the agreements made between the parties.

It is possible to expand the performance inspections into full site management. The coordination activities include taking care of contract variations, attending site meetings and preparing the minutes of these meetings, general coordinating duties, such as verification of progress and planning, and technical inspections regarding payment schedules.
